IN GEORGIA, as in Virginia, so far, the blacks who have registered as voters are in excess of the whites.

THE Indian war is costing from one to two millions of dollars extra each week. A year of this business will add seriously to the public burdens.

GEN. SHERIDAN will make a campaign against the Texas officials, as soon as the supplemental bill becomes a law. Some severity down there will be wholesome.

THE New York Herald gives currency to a report that the fillibustering movements at the South, ostensibly against Mexico, are really designed against the government at Washington. It will take very strong evidence to gain credence for that rumor.

THE only thing that gives color to the report from Havana that Santa Anna returned to Mexico with the endorsement, written or otherwise, of President JOHNSON and Secretary SEWARD, is the wretched manner in which they have managed Mexican complications all along.

BY OUR commercial columns this morning it will be seen that yesterday 42,400 barrels of crude petroleum was sold in this city, and 5,000 barrels of refined oil. The advance on the crude, for immediate delivery, is full one hundred per cent. above the rates that prevailed three weeks ago.

MR. S. S. COX made the journey from New York to Washington to prevail on democratic Congressmen to join in the movement to nominate Gen. Grant for President. He went back with the knowledge that the General will not take their nomination if it should please the democrats to tender it to him. So much questionable strategy of Mr. Cox's gone to the bad.

JUAREZ has in his possession the French Minister to the Court of Maximilian, and refuses to let him depart. He demands, in exchange for him, Almonte, the Minister of Maximilian to France, whom he wants to kill, because he was one of those who tendered the Crown to the Austrian Prince. France is likely to take other means than compliance with this demand to secure its official. The New York Herald, which is not good authority, has a cable special, stating that Prussia, Austria and France will make war on Mexico, in the event of the final refusal of Juarez to surrender the body of Maximilian.

GOV. BROWNLOW has no notion of quitting this life, and has grown quite out of temper by the frequent assertions that he is dying. The following characteristic proclamation stops the report of his declining health:

"TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

"The vindictive rebels and their apostate Union co-workers are asserting from one end of the State to the other that I am dying, or will die—telling the truth, but intending to make the false impression that I am now in the act of departing this life. With those who are trumpeting this news abroad, the wish is father to the thought. Like my political enemies and my friends, and all other human beings, I am dying, and will certainly die sooner or later. With us all it is only a question of time. My health, though indifferent, through God's mercy, is now as good as it has been at any time in the last twelve months. I eat three hearty meals each day—I sleep well at night—and, asleep or awake, I have a good conscience, and the pleasing prospect before me of obtaining the largest majority in the race for Governor that any man has obtained in the State for the last thirty years.

WM. G. BROWNLOW.

July 10, 1867.

THE Reading Dispatch, has brought forth out of the Pennsylvania law reports, a high tribute to our candidate for the Supreme bench, from no less a personage than HON. GEORGE WOODWARD. It says:

Among the numerous instances in which the high judicial character of the Hon. Henry W. Williams, our candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court, the present Chief Justice, in delivering the opinion of the Supreme Court in the case of Burr vs. Todd, reported in 5 Wright, page 213:

"In McClourg vs. Crogham's Administrators, (1 Grant's cases, p. 367,) this subject was greatly discussed upon the authorities, and it was held by Judge Williams, of the District Court of Allegheny county, that the breach of a contract to sell land, and that the measure of damages in such a case is the price paid for the lease and its interest, and not the value of the bargain.

"The price paid for land, whether upon lease or sale, is the value of it as between the contracting parties; so that Judge Williams's ruling was not inconsistent with the doctrine in 8 Casey. That the same rule prevails in respect to parol contracts, was abundantly shown in Malaun vs. Ammon, (1 Grant's cases, p. 123,) afterwards approved by the whole Court in Hertzogg vs. Hertzogg, (10 Casey, p. 418,) and Dumeors vs. Miller. Ib. 319."

It is so rare that the Judge of an inferior court is quoted as authority by the Supreme Court, that such an occurrence is extraordinary; and it is but reasonable to say that the unanimous acceptance by the Supreme Court of Judge Williams as high judicial authority, is conclusive proof of his qualifications to be the successor of the Justice who pronounced the compliment of the Court upon him.

—The New York Tribune says: "Sanitary tuition is still needed in this filthy city. Last week we commented upon the assertion made by the Registrar of Vital Statistics, that the increased mortality of the preceding week was due to the overcrowding and uncleanliness of certain portions of the city. The lesson of that week is repeated in the report of the health of the city for the week ending on Saturday last. While there was an increase of the death rate from 30.72 to 35.98 per 1,000, and while 135 more children under five years of age were carried off, there was no increase of mortality in the cleanly and well-kept regions of the Fifteenth ward and portions of the Eighteenth and Twenty first. Here, the deaths were less than one to six thousand; but down in the foul slime of the East River wards the deaths were one to eleven hundred, and 80 per cent. of those who died were children under five years of age."

—The Philadelphia Bulletin states that William Wharton, Jr., of that city, has perfected an invention which overcomes all risk or danger of accidents from misplaced railroad switches. By this plan the main track is unbroken, and trains can pass from city to city, with lightning speed, without the slightest possibility of damage or danger from misplaced switches. At the same time, if it is desirable to move a train from the main track, it is accomplished with entire safety in the simplest manner. The Philadelphia & Reading railroad, it is stated, are now removing the old switches, and introducing Mr. Wharton's.

—Mr. Peter Glass, of the humble town of Barton, Washington county, Wisconsin, by dint of an infinite deal of patience and skill, made a Mosaic Inlaid Center table, of several thousand pieces of wood, which he took to the Great Exposition at Paris. The haughty ocean telegraph reports among other things that received "honorable mention" by the officials of the Great Exposition, was a Masonic Inlaid Center Table, of Peter Glass, Boston!

The real murderer of White died many years ago, and on his death-bed confessed that he had testified falsely against Manasseh to save his own neck, but for some reason Manasseh's petition has always before been rejected, and only now, when an old broken down man, is he permitted again to enter the world.

MIDNIGHT.

CONGRESS

In Extraordinary Session.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 18, 1867.

SENATE.

Mr. RAMSEY introduced a joint resolution authorizing the extension of mail steamship service between the United States and China. Referred.

Mr. CHANDLER called up his resolution directing the Committee on Foreign Relations to inquire into the execution of Maximilian's decree of October, 1865, how many Mexican soldiers and officers were executed under it, &c. It was agreed to.

Mr. WILSON introduced a joint resolution, expressing admiration for the long and heroic struggle of the Mexican people and earnest hope for the consolidation of the Republic, and the pursuance of a humane and liberal policy. Referred.

Mr. HENDRICKS called up the bill to establish peace with certain hostile Indian tribes, by the appointment as commissioners of Generals Sherman, Hancock, Augur, Harney, and Messrs. John B. Sanborn, Wm. Bent, S. O. Beaumis, and Kit Carson, and Commissioner of Indian Affairs, to select reservations upon which to locate said tribes.

Mr. ROSS offered an amendment, authorizing the General of the army to accept the services of volunteers, not exceeding four thousand in number, from the States of Kansas and Nebraska, and territories, to aid in suppressing Indian hostilities, said volunteers to be placed on the same footing as to pay and subsistence as the regular troops.

Amended by inserting "the Secretary of War, under the authority of the President," instead of the General in Chief, and a proviso that the volunteers are not to be called out unless the Commissioners shall do it to secure peace.

The names of the Commissioners were then stricken out and the President authorized to appoint a Commission to consist of three officers of the army, not below the rank of Brigadier General, the Chairman of the Indian Committee of each House, and the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, to negotiate with the Indians, and report the proceedings to the President.

After a discussion on the general merits of the bill, it passed. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

Mr. SCOFIELD, on leave, offered a resolution directing the Secretary of the Treasury to withhold payment of the $3,000,000 for cotton claims, under the decision of the Court of Claims. Adopted.

Mr. HUBBARD took exception to some remarks in reference to West Virginia, which appeared in the Globe report of the speech of Mr. Van Trump, which he understood had not been delivered. It spoke of West Virginia as a mere political foundling, without a drop of Constitutional blood in her veins, and illegitimate star in our political constellation, conceived in sin and born in the iniquity of modern Republicanism, &c. He (Mr. Hubbard) defended the birth of his State, instanced her loyalty during the war, and claimed she was an honored star in our political constellation, born to loyalty and dedicated to freedom.

Mr. VAN TRUMP disclaimed any intention of reflecting on the people of West Virginia. He had only discussed the political question as to the process of its organization.

Mr. KELLEY presented a communication, addressed to the Thirty-Ninth and Fortieth Congress, by the citizens of Decatur, Alabama, presenting the thanks of the suffering poor of Northern Alabama, for supplies furnished through General Howard, and stating that the prospects for the crop were so flattering that they hoped to raise this year abundance of everything, and to be able to dispense with further bounty. Laid on the table and ordered to be printed.

Mr McCLURG, Chairman of the Committee on Southern Railroads, offered a resolution authorizing the Committee to proceed by Sub-Committees. Adopted.

Mr. ASHLEY, of Ohio, introduced a bill authorizing alternate sessions of the District Court of the United States for the Northern District of Ohio, in Cleveland on the second Tuesday of July, and in Toledo on the second Tuesday of November. Passed.

Mr. FERRY introduced a joint resolution authorizing a change of the stopping place of mail steamers in Japan from Yokohoma to Osaca, which was passed.

Mr. ROBINSON asked leave to offer a preamble and resolution to remove the tax on raw cotton.

Messrs. ALLISON and BENJAMIN objected.

Mr. BROOMALL offered a resolution directing the Committee on Foreign Affairs to report what action of this government will best manifest the sympathies of the American people for the heroic Cretans, in what was consistent with its duties as a neutral and friendly power, that the good offices of the government may be most successfully interposed to secure for the people of Candia the blessings of peace and amelioration of their political condition. Adopted unanimously.

Mr. SCHENCK, under the suspension of the rules, introduced a bill transferring the Indian Bureau from the Interior to the War Department. Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. LOGAN asked leave to offer a resolution, presented yesterday by Mr. Selge, asking the President to issue a proclamation to prevent the departure to Mexico of unlawful organizations, &c., and it was received and adopted.

Mr. PILE, on leave, introduced a joint resolution directing the Secretary of the Treasury to suspend payment of the judgment of the Court of Claims, for $58,000, in favor of Simon Stevens, for the purchase of Hall Carbines, by order of Gen. Fremont, until further action. Passed.

On motion of Mr. JULIAN, the Secretary of War was instructed to inform the House what quantity of swamp lands granted to the States lately in rebellion remain undisposed of.

Mr. ROSS asked leave to offer a resolution directing the Judiciary Committee to report, and have printed, the testimony taken in the impeachment case.

General objection was made on the Republican side.

The SPEAKER presented the correspondence between the Navy Department and Admiral Goldsborough, which was ordered to be printed.

Also, the reply of the Secretary of the Treasury to Mr. Schenck's resolution, relative to the Metropolitan Board of Internal Revenue, in New York. He claims authority to appoint the Commission from the general tenor of the revenue law. Unless Congress disapproves of it, he will establish similar Boards in other States. After a long discussion the paper was laid on the table.

Mr. SCHENCK'S motion to have it referred to the Committee on Ways and Means not prevailing.

Mr. WILSON, of Iowa, from the Judiciary Committee, reported back the amendment to the Senate bill to secure equal rights in the District of Columbia. The amendment was agreed to, and the bill as amended was passed.

Adjourned.

FROM MEXICO.

Punishment of Prisoners—A New Rebellion—Maximilian's Body—Santa Anna Avers His Return to Mexico Concurred in by the United States—His Death Confirmed.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 18.—A letter of instruction from Minister Mejia to General Escobedo is published, informing him of the intentions of the Government in relation to his prisoners, and intimating that the law would justify punishment upon identification. but that a more complete justification of the proceedings would be furnished by granting the prisoners a trial.

The letter of General Prim, the Spanish revolutionist, is published. He acknowledges he first suggested the plan of French intervention in Mexico.

The Herald's Washington correspondent says the entire fillibustering movements throughout the South, ostensibly for the purpose of avenging the death of Maximilian, are really movements for the inauguration of a new rebellion.

The Herald's special says France, Austria and Prussia will make war on Mexico in the event of the refusal by the Liberal Government to deliver the body of Maximilian.

During Santa Anna's presence at Vera Cruz he held two interviews with the Commissary Bureau, Generals Tanoda and Perez Gomez. Santa Anna informed the Imperialist authorities that he returned to Mexico with the concurrence of the United States. He exhibited a written document, covering three foolscap pages, signed by President Johnson and Secretary Seward, and bearing their official seals, to return to Mexico and establish himself as President and Dictator; the United States would recognize him as the constitutional head of the government, furnish him with loans to the amount of two hundred thousand dollars per month, and whatever arms and munitions of war he might require, in addition to granting him permission to recruit troops in the United States. My informants declared emphatically, of their own knowledge, that the document was genuine.

NEW ORLEANS, July 18.—The officers of the United States steamer Unoca, and Heroine, from Tampico, confirm the report of the death of Santa Anna. Gen. Pavon has about seven hundred men at Tampico, and Gomez and Canales had about 400, and were recruiting. The Government relinquishes its claim against the steamer Heroine, seized at Tampico for fraudulent sales, but retains for a lien advances for the New Orleans Consul and Collector Kellogg. The Heroine has been turned over to the Naval officer here.

A Railroad Trouble.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CINCINNATI, July 18.—After a compulsory suspension of five days, trains have commenced running on the Chicago and Great Eastern Railroad. The stopping was due to arrears of about one hundred employees at Logansport, Indiana, to whom four months wages are due. The United States Marshal at Indianapolis proceeded to Logansport and arrested thirty-five of the ringleaders, but this did not end the stoppage of trains. Finally leading business men of Logansport offered to pay all employees' claims against the company at a discount of ten per cent. This was accepted.

Texas Officials.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, July 18.—The Times' special says: Letters from New Orleans say General Sheridan will soon issue an order removing the entire body of office holders in Texas, with the exception of a few who hold positions of minor importance. Judge Paschall will probably be appointed Governor in place of Throckmorton, the present incumbent.

THE SURRATT TRIAL.

Testimony Not Yet Closed.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 18, 1867.

Rev. L. Rockaford was sworn to prove Weichman had admitted to having sent information to the Confederates. The testimony was ruled out.

Rev. J. A. Walter was sworn and asked if Mrs. Surratt avowed her innocence on the day of the execution, &c.

Objection made and testimony ruled out.

John Greeves, a tailor, residing in Montreal, testified that he knew the prisoner; made him a Garibaldi in 1865; the Garibaldi is a plaited garment; plaited back and front, and has plain wrist bands; it buttons close up to the throat. After the purchase of the coat, I saw Surratt at my store; saw him before April 20th, 1865; was between the 11th and 18th; he left his measure on the 8th or 9th of April; he afterwards came to see me, and said the coat was too light, and wanted me to alter it; saw Surratt at Father Lapiere's; there was where I got acquainted with him. I then invited him to my house, and he stayed with me two days; when he left my house I went with him about thirteen miles to Long Point. Mr. Mithleria went with us.

Sarsfield B. Nagle, residing at Montreal, and an advocate, testified to knowing McMillan well, and would not, as a juror, believe him.

Louis W. Secotts, an advocate, residing at Montreal, testified to knowing St. Marie; would not believe him on oath.

Dr. Ludger La Belle testified to the same effect.

Jos. Dutilley testified McMillan's reputation for veracity is bad.

Defense stated they had five witnesses en route to Washington who were material to them.

The Court took a recess till to-morrow.

STATE OF KANSAS.

Excursion Over the Union Pacific Railway, E. D.

[Special Correspondence Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ALLEGHENY CITY, July 16, 1867.

EDUCATION IN KANSAS.

Amongst a people so intelligent and progressive as those of Kansas, I was prepared to find that the cause of popular education was receiving both from the State and the people, that care and attention which it so justly merits. To show how it is progressing, as well as to show to what proportions the Free School system has already grown, I compile the following table from the Sixth Annual Report of the Superintendent of Public Institutions. By it, at a glance, the reader may note the progress made in a single year:

	1865.	1866.	In.
Number of Districts......	721	871	150
" " Teachers......	829	1,1[illegible]	89
" Scholars Enrolled......	26,341	31,[illegible]	4,9[illegible]7
Teachers Salaries.........	$85,808	115,924	$29,[illegible]
Value of School Houses...	122,822	318,897	196,075
Assessed in Districts for School Purposes.......	116,589	192,629	86,031

In addition to these there are 83 Select Schools, with 113 teachers and 3,228 scholars; three Academies and Institutes, nine Colleges and Universities, numbering 39 Professors and Teachers, and 958 students. Two of these are Commercial Colleges. All of these are private or denominational institutions.

Still additional to these are three higher State institutions, viz: The State Normal School at Emporia, in Lyon county, about sixty miles southwest of Lawrence, with three Professors; the State Agricultural College, with five Professors, situate on a beautiful eminence overlooking Manhattan; and the State University at Lawrence, which went into operation in September, 1866. Of these three last mentioned institutions I am able to speak somewhat more particularly.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL.

The primary object of this school is the education of teachers. It had been in operation about two years when the report of 1866, now before me, was made. It is one of the most cherished and highly valued institutions in the State. "Not merely to learn the lessons of the day, but to learn how to teach it to others, is the object definitely aimed at," says the visitors in their report. Of the system or plan of teaching in that school the report gives so clear and graphic an account that I know not how I could interest the reader more than by copying an entire paragraph:

"One of the most noticeable points was the rigid persistence with which the topical system of recitation was enforced. The old stereotyped system of "questions and answers" was utterly discarded. Topics, ofttener than otherwise consisting of a single word, were assigned to the pupils, and each, without the slightest reference to text books or memoranda, was required to rise and develop it in his own language, and in proper consecutive order, with constant and copious blackboard illustrations. Thus the topic assigned to a pupil might be "The Andes." He was required to sketch upon the board a complete map of that system of mountains, with all their important ramifications—the valleys, plateaux and lakes they enclose, and the rivers flowing from them; to describe the height of all the different chains and principal peaks; to give the local names, latitude and longitude, altitude, climate and special characteristics of all the different points of the map. When all this has been done, the topography of the region in question is fixed in bold and indelible relief upon the mind of the pupil. In like manner the pupils in Physical Geography were required to illustrate and describe the ocean currents, the winds, volcanic and tidal action. Those in history to draw maps of important historic regions and battle fields. Those in Geology draw sections of strata and sketches of fossils. In Grammar, Crosby's novel method of written analysis was used. Witnessing one recitation in arithmetic would certainly excite in the most inveterate old fogy a supreme disgust at the aimless and worthless "ciphering" of our District Schools. In reading, the difference was, if possible, still more striking. In the elementary class the phonic analysis of sounds was taught, accompanied by remarkably neat and tasteful phonetic printing of entire lessons upon the board. The result of this is, that Normal graduates will understand the pronunciation of English words! The utmost deliberation, distinctness and volume of utterance was demanded. In the more advanced class the graces of elocution were taught, with a somewhat extended study of distinguished authors. In vocal music all the pupils were required to thoroughly master the rules of musical notation by a drill as rigid as any other study, and the class singing was strong, harmonious and spirited. A noteworthy feature was found in the general teaching exercises. Under Prof. Kellogg's direction the entire school performed astonishingly with rapid combinations of numbers; and Prof. Norton discussed and elucidated the important political and scientific news of the day."

A new, handsome and commodious edifice has just been erected for this school, and a boarding house of stone, large enough to accommodate fifty boarders.

KANSAS STATE AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

This is the only institution of learning I visited while in the State. As before stated, it is near Manhattan, and from its windows, and more especially from its lofty cupalo, the view all around for miles is exceedingly beautiful and varied. The institution is in a flourishing condition. I witnessed the recitation of several classes; and if there were fewer novelties in the mode than are described above, the instruction was none the less thorough. I was both surprised and pleased at the thoroughness with which the students appeared to grasp the subject matter of the lessons in hand.

In this College, Agriculture is taught as a science and by practical operations. A lot of eighty acres of excellent land has been enclosed by a handsome stone fence, and a beginning made both in agriculture and horticulture. In time this will be very beautiful as well as useful. It is not, however, what is called a manual labor institution. An agriculturist is to be engaged, under whose supervision the operations of this department will be carried on. To the President, Rev. J. Denison, D. D., and Professor B. F. Mudge, from whose report as State Geologist I drew largely in speaking of the mineral resources of Kansas, I am under many obligations for kind attentions while at their beautiful place.

President Denison, in his report, makes a few general remarks upon the progress of Kansas, which I take the liberty to copy as exactly pertinent to my object in making these brief notices:

"We already have a number of students from the counties west of this point. The pulsations through the great artery of travel to the Rocky Mountains and Santa Fe are already felt in the rapid increase of settlers in these counties. The cars of the Union Pacific Railway, E. D. will run to Salina, seventy miles west of this, by next spring, and soon to the western limit of the State. The benefits of this thoroughfare of travel to the State are almost incalculable; its cost to the State is very little. So much the more, then, can the State afford to apply a portion of its increasing means to the development of its institutions of learning. To the myriads of settlers that are coming on this thoroughfare, and those pouring into its northern and southern borders, the State cannot afford to refuse the means of education, or be slow or parsimonious in providing these means for them."

This college is less than twenty miles this side of Fort Riley. By act of Congress it has an endowment of ninety thousand acres of land.

UNIVERSITY OF KANSAS.

This is a new institution, the first session having opened September 12, 1866. The College edifice, which stands on a commanding eminence overlooking the city of Lawrence, is a handsome stone building. I regretted that I did not reach Lawrence on my return trip until the day after the commencement exercises had closed; but the citizens spoke in glowing terms of the manner in which the Faculty had discharged their duties and led their students forward in sound learning. This institution places both sexes, so far as education is concerned, on an equality. On this point President Rice, in his report, remarks: "This, without doubt, is both just and expedient. It is no small honor that the Mediterranean State should be the first to recognize the rights of woman in her educational system."

The same is true, I believe, of the Normal School, as I know it is of the Agricultural College at Manhattan. There I saw young men and young women reciting together in the same classes, and certainly there appeared to be quite as much vigor of comprehension and understanding on the part of the part of the latter as of the former. Towards each other their deportment was that of well trained brothers and sisters in the home circle. Kansas is sufficiently civilized to mingle the sexes in the higher schools without danger of folly or impropriety.

BANQUET TO THE SULTAN.

LONDON, July 18—Evening.—A grand banquet was given at Guild Hall this evening in honor of the Sultan. For his entertainment great preparations were made, and were in every way a success. The Prince of Wales, Ismail Pasha, and all the principal members of the government were present. Nearly three thousand guests were at the tables, which were stretched in parallel lines the whole length of the magnificent hall. The greater number of those present were the most eminent men in the nation for rank or reputation. The hall and the tables were gorgeously decorated, and the display of gold and silver plate was excessively rich and dazzling. To-night a grand ball, given to Belgian volunteers, who are on a visit to this country, is in progress at Agricultural Hall. Over fifteen thousand people are there. It is expected the Sultan, Prince of Wales and others of the distinguished party at Guild Hall, will visit Agricultural Hall before the close of the festivities.

I have been disappointed. The moment has now arrived when I must change my plans. Many will blame me for what I am about to do, but posterity I am sure will justify me. "The Proposed Consolidation—A Misstatement Corrected."

A communication appeared in the Chronicle of Wednesday, in reference to a "local" article, published in the GAZETTE, of the 10th inst., relating to consolidation, in which the writer, who signs himself "Allegheny," "suggests that the state and pencil be put in the hands of a more reliable friend of the measure than the individual who penned or dictated the article in the GAZETTE." It is quite evident from "Allegheny's" style that egotism is not the least of his faults, and we shall not, therefore, attempt to convince him that we were right and he is wrong; but for the information of others concerned in the matter, we will give the data upon which our statement was based.

We procured the figures upon which our article was based from a reliable source, and we are inclined to believe them. "Allegheny's" opinion to the contrary notwithstanding. The figures, we are informed by the parties who furnished them, were collected with care, in most cases are from an official source, and can be substantiated. He says: "I am at a loss to know how he figures out twenty-one mills City and Borough tax in Shaler township, and ten mills each in Collins, Liberty and Peebles." Nothing strange in this at all. We never knew a man with as much egotism as "Allegheny" appears to have, but who would sometimes be "at a loss" to know things that school-boys are familiar with. But we will endeavor to assist him "out of the woods," by informing him that "City and Borough" taxes are levied for the purpose of keeping the city streets in repair, also for various other purposes; that in townships they levy what they call a road tax for repairs, and in making our statement we did not think it necessary to make a separate column, especially for road tax, when they both properly came under the same head. Had we imagined that "Allegheny," or any one else, would have been "at a loss" to understand the matter, we would have stated it otherwise. He is "at a loss" again, we observe, as to how we get the rates of taxation for school purposes in Pittsburgh ten mills, when the act consolidating the wards for school purposes limits the amount to six mills, and refers us to the school law of 1864, in regard to the townships. We are quite willing to admit that our knowledge of the school law is but a superficial one, but "Allegheny" should understand the laws, and the reasons for them, before he presumes to teach them. We will endeavor to enlighten him in this matter if possible. The Central Board of Education levied a tax of six mills, and there was a school tax of four mills for building purposes, which is as much a permanent tax as any other, levied on the different wards as a building tax—so levied as to average four mills throughout the city—thus making a school tax of ten mills. We stated in our article that we did not include taxes for building purposes, and also that we included all permanent taxes. School taxes for building purposes are permanent, and hence are included, while the taxes for building purposes, referred to in our article, did not include school taxes for that purpose, but the city taxes for building purposes, which is a special levy. We know as well as "Allegheny" that the school law prohibits a greater levy than twenty mills on the dollar, and he is very stupid if he does not know that school boards have paid but very little attention to it. In his own table, he gives six instances where boards have disregarded it. We have, as stated above, received our information from a reliable source, and so far as Liberty township is concerned, have the statement of the Treasurer of the Board over his signature, in which he says that the school board of that township had levied twenty-five mills for school purposes. In Allegheny city the Board of Control levied a tax ten mills for school purposes, and there is in the four wards a tax of two, three, six and eight mills respectively, for building purposes, which makes an average of four and three-fourths, and this added to the ten levied by the Board of Control amounts to fourteen and three-fourths mills, just as stated in our former article.

We think the foregoing will fully satisfy our readers of the correctness of our position, unless there be some among them like "Allegheny," who is "at a loss" to know many things plainly intelligible to less presuming men. The matter of "business tax of two and one-fourth mills" is paid by perhaps three thousand persons out of a population of over sixty thousand, and that is one and one-fourth mills instead of two and one-fourth, as stated by "Allegheny." The subjoined statement shows the levies in the two cities:

A Wonderful Cure Under Singular Circumstances—Was it Through Prayer?

We clip the following from one of our exchanges, the Catholic Standard, of Philadelphia, regarding the cure of a lady of this city, Miss Pauline Beale. The Catholics hereabout have been discussing the matter thoroughly during the past few weeks, and many regard the cure as a miracle. The lady was attended by Dr. Fleming, whose views regarding the case we have not learned. It is asserted that when Bishop Domenec quitted this city for Rome, he promised the lady to have prayers said for her on the day of the canonization and exhorted her to have faith in their efficacy. Singular to say, she arose from her bed on that very day, out of which she was unable to get during eight long, weary years, and has since been convalescent. As the matter has been the subject of much conversation in this city, we give our readers the statement of the editor of the Standard regarding the lady's remarkable return to health. He says:

"We think it right to publish the particulars of a wonderful cure which has lately come to our notice. A lady residing in a city in this State, has been bedridden and unable to stand upright for eight years and six months. She has frequently been pronounced incurable by physicians. This we know of our own personal knowledge. In fact, we know that she had abandoned all hopes of a cure by humans, and was thinking only of patiently bearing her sufferings in preparation for the end which was impending. But the approaching canonization of the Blessed Paul of the Cross, founder of the Passionists, moved some of the fathers of that order, who were in the habit of visiting her, to afford her spiritual comfort, to have many novenas said for her by religious communities and other pious persons, to their holy Founder, to the end that, through his intercession, she might be cured on the day of his canonization. And it would seem that their prayers have been heard. On the evening of June 29th she got up and walked across the room. She is still very weak from excitement, but there can be no doubt of the fact."

The Continental Saloon.

Among the many well conducted first class restaurants and eating saloons in the city none stand higher in the estimation of the public than the "Continental," situated next door to the Postoffice, on Fifth street. It has for a long time past been under the management of Mr. Wm. Holtzheimer, the worthiest and most skilled of proprietors, and has ever merited and received a large share of public patronage. The saloon is well arranged for the business to which it is adapted, being large, airy and neatly fitted. The furniture is of first class style, while the utmost cleanliness prevails. All the cooking is done in the rear of the saloon—a great convenience in this warm weather which other places for dining might profitably adopt. The tables are kept constantly supplied with the choicest of viands and delicacies which the markets afford, served up in the very best style of the culinary art. The bar is liberally supplied with ales, wines and beers, no stronger beverages being sold. To those desirous of procuring a first class meal we can safely recommend Mr. Holtzheimer's saloon.

Blown Down.—The Methodist Episcopal Church, in course of construction in New Brighton, Pa., and which was nearly completed, was blown down on the third inst. The building was ready for the roof, the brick work having been completed, and the rafters up when the walls were blown to the first story. The loss will amount to about four thousand dollars. Workmen are clearing away the rubbish, and we are informed by the Pastor, Mr. McIlyar, that they will have the building completed by the middle of September.

A Misdemeanor.—Mr. E. K. Rogers, of the firm of McVay & Rogers, livery stable keepers on Irwin street, made information against E. T. Slatin, charging him with committing a misdemeanor by abusing a horse. The deponent alleges that, on the 12th inst., the defendant hired from him a horse and buggy, and when he returned them the horse showed marks of having been grossly abused, and the buggy was broken. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the defendant under the livery stable act.

Serenade.—We are indebted to McMeniman's string band for a delightful serenade last night. The band is composed of four members, viz: Rody McMeniman, J. McMeniman, Philip Crouse and Jacob Byerly, first, second and third violins, and violincello, respectively. They are all excellent performers, and their enchanting strains and melodies are always welcome.

Rare Chance for Business.—Elsewhere is offered for sale one-half interest in an established dry goods store, on Federal street, Allegheny, which is now doing a business aggregating forty thousand dollars a year. This is a rare chance to enter into business.

More Police Extortion.

The exposure of instances of extortion by the police is not chronic with us, and we had rather not be called upon to do so. We certainly have no malice to gratify, and protest having no other object in view than to lend our assistance, of whatever service it may be, in putting a stop to a system of blackmailing which has been carried on with such impunity that those engaging in it have come to think they are in no danger of being brought to account. and hence continue their alliance with robbers, losing no favorable opportunity for pillaging from unfortunate people who find themselves in the meshes of the law, and are glad enough to escape the penalty by complying with the demands made of them while under duress.

We have a case in hand, which affords a fair illustration of how the "black mailers" operate. A few weeks ago a stranger, named Gallagher, an Irishman, came to the city, with his wife, and stopped at the "Bull's Head" tavern, on Second street. His occupation was that of a pedlar, and his stock in trade consisted of cloths and such like merchandize. He had not complied with the law in taking out a license, and thus incurred the penalty of fifty dollars prescribed by act of Assembly, to be imposed on conviction in the Quarter Sessions. He was arrested upon information, and taken before a magistrate. He was a stranger, perhaps ignorant of the requirements of the law. That he was ignorant in other respects there can be no question. He had money, and here was one of the "favorable opportunities" which the "black-mailers" fail not to take advantage of. They excited his fears, by magnifying his offense, placing the bail which he would be required to give in order to avoid going to jail at the extraordinary amount of twenty thousand dollars. He had no friends in the city, and had his wife with him. When there seemed to be no other alternative than for him to go to prison, it was suggested to Gallagher that one hundred and seventy-five dollars would get him out of the trouble. He greedily accepted the proposition, produced the required amount from his store of four or five hundred dollars, and expressed his gratitude by bestowing a few dollars in addition upon each of the officers concerned in the transaction, and who, in his simplicity, Gallagher supposed had done him a great favor. Gallagher was, of course, released. Subsequently, in talking about the matter, he was surprised to learn that a swindle had been practised upon him, or in plainer words, that he had been in the hands of "black-mailers." He sought advice from a counsellor at law, who, after hearing the particulars of the transaction, placed but little credence in the statement. However, he addressed a note to the "officers of the law," inviting them to "come and see him," intimating that it might be good policy for them to disgorge and thus avoid exposure. Convenient "go-betweens" are lawyers, sometimes, and while it may be considered "legitimate" practice, we cannot avoid the conclusion that where prosecutions are thus avoided, justice and honesty are ignored. The "note" addressed had the effect of convincing the lawyer that the statement made to him was not, as he had conjectured, the wild phantasy of a man suffering from delirium tremens,—the anxiety of the "black mailers" to have the matter arranged, indicating the truth of what had been asserted by Gallagher. They disgorged, and thus Gallagher was persuaded not to prosecute for extortion. Within about ten days after this occurrence, Gallagher died at the "Bull's Head," the result of increased intemperance, whether arising from the trouble the police caused him or not, we do not pretend to say.

One, at first glance, would scarcely credit that such transactions would be engaged in by officers of the law. Yet, remembering cases which were tried at the recent term of the Criminal Court, it is not so surprising.

We are complained of for such publications as the above, on the ground of indefiniteness. It is claimed that we should give names of magistrates and officers, in order that the innocent may not be impugned with the guilty. It is time enough, we judge, to be more particular when prosecutions are instituted, and it is to the interest of those of our magistrates and officers, who do not wish to rest under the imputation arising by some of their number violating the law, to interest themselves in having the guilty prosecuted. So long as black mailing is allowed to be practised, and persons known to be engaged in it are permitted to hold the office of magistrates and constables, just so long will the stigma rest on the whole body, and the sooner the "weeding out" process commences the better for the honest and upright portion of our Aldermen and officers, and that there are some such we maintain.

Robbery at Irwin's Station—Arrest of the Alleged Thieves.

During Wednesday night the jewelry store of John M. Williams, at Irwin's Station, Westmoreland county, about twenty miles from the city, was entered by thieves, and goods to the value of over one thousand dollars carried off. The thieves gained an entrance into the cellar beneath the store, and establishing a base of operations there, cut a large hole through the floor, and thus gained access to the storeroom. Once in the storeroom they made a selection of the most valuable watches, jewelry, and silver ware in the store. They then proceeded to a room occupied by Mr. Williams as a sleeping apartment, where they secured some eighteen or twenty valuable watches.

The robbery was discovered at an early hour on Thursday morning, and suspicion pointing to two men who had been seen lounging around the town on the previous day, immediate search was made for them. Mr. A. M. Bouser, a resident of Irwin Station, who had been victimized on the previous day by thieves, ascertained that the parties had been seen crossing the country towards the Connellsville Railroad, and he started in pursuit. He took passage on a train, coming to the city, and at Oscela learned that two men answering the description of those he was in search of, had taken passage on the early train for this city. He followed, and when he reached the depot he was informed that the parties left the train at Soho. He secured the assistance of officers Hague and McKelvey, of the independent police, and visited Soho. They succeeded in capturing two men, giving their names as John Cline and Charles Pohle, who had in their possession a considerable quantity of stolen jewelry. The watches will probably be recovered to-day. The accused were committed to jail for a further hearing.

The shoe shop of Mr. J. H. Therilor, a short distance from the jewelry store, was entered by the same parties who entered the other, and robbed of fifty-five dollars worth of boots and shoes. The building was entered by forcing a window with a "jimmy."

A Sick Man in Search of Health.

A year or two ago, I suffered with a terrible breaking out over the body, with pain in the limbs and a general prostration of the whole system, which, instead of "wearing out," as I frequently had been told it would, it was gradually wearing me out, and leaving me day by day with less hope of recovery. I could not see how this ought to be for one of my years (forty-five). I consulted one doctor after another, of all the pathys that I could read or hear of. I had no stomach—that is, none that was of much use as far as the purpose of digestion was concerned. All the bitters and stimulants that I could take only palliated, to let me sink into a deeper and more melancholy depression, after their effects had passed away. I tried one and another of the quack nostrums that I seen advertised in the newspapers, but to no purpose. Now, how I come to get well. A pamphlet or circular was put into my hands, detailing cures made by your BLOOD SEARCHER. Among the cures was that of Mr. Boyd, marble cutter, 313 Liberty street. I went to see him, and found that his cure more than came up to the certificate. I tried your BLOOD SEARCHER to the amount of a dozen or more bottles, and now rejoice in a complete renewal of all my faculties.

I would here state that after I commenced taking DR. KEYSER'S BLOOD SEARCHER I broke out with more eruptions on the skin, which somewhat alarmed me. I then went to see Dr. Keyser, and he told me to keep on, that it was merely the medicine throwing the disease to the surface of the body. I am now as healthy as any one could wish, and you can refer any one to me you see proper.

Yours.

Another Speedy Cure.

Mr. John Morrison, one of our late worthy grand jurymen, makes the following statement of his speedy recovery from a disease of the head and chest from which he had nearly perished!

I cheerfully make known to the public the speedy manner in which I have recovered from my critical state of health under the treatment of Dr. Aborn, at No. 134 Smithfield street. I have been afflicted for several years with catarrh of the head, which at last affected my throat, and soon thereafter my lungs became involved. And also this filthy head accumulation, gravitating downwards, destroyed the functions of my stomach and liver. I was so dyspeptic, and my liver so deranged, that what little food I did eat offered so little nourishment to the system that I soon became very much reduced in flesh. I was perfectly miserable. Life afforded no enjoyment. What enjoyment can one find that is afflicted as I was? I have been under the treatment of Dr. Aborn but three weeks, and the remarkable change which has taken place in the character of my disease in so short a time is almost incredible. My appetite is fully restored to its former power; have gained many pounds in weight, and am still gaining, and am once more on the road to health, as the results of his peculiar treatment.

JOHN MORRISON, 255 Bedford street.

Hearing Restored in Five Minutes.

When I applied to Dr. Aborn, 134 Smithfield street, this morning, (Saturday, July 13th,) I was so deaf in my right ear that I could not hear my watch tick when pressed against it, and had been so for years. In five minutes time he restored my hearing. Now I can hear my watch tick at a distance of eight inches. This I consider a remarkable cure.

Stolen Horses Recovered.

Two horses, stolen from the pasture of Mr. W. Holle, in Wilkins township, on Tuesday night, were recovered yesterday. The circumstances leading to their recovery are as follows: An advertisement appeared in a morning paper yesterday describing the horses, and officer Hartzell, who had read the notice, observed one of the horses in the street in Birmingham, in possession of a Mr. Moore, of Westmoreland county. He arrested Moore, who stated that he had got the horse from the Oakland Car Company, and on following the matter up, the other horse was found there also. It appears that two negroes had stolen the horses, one of which they had sold to the Company for cash, and the other they traded for a blind horse and twenty-five dollars. The thieves are not known, and will probably not be apprehended.

Some of our Cotemporaries seem to think that the triumph of their cause depended, like the fate of Jericho, upon the amount of noise made—in these days of refinement and luxury, an article of real intrinsic merit is soon appreciated: hence the unbounded and unparalleled success of PLANTATION BITTERS.

This remedy has ever and always been found reliable. As a gentle stimulant and tonic appetizer it cannot be excelled. It is no doubt a sovereign remedy for stomachic disorders—for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, and in stimulating a healthy appetite.

How to Make Wine.

Not according to this receipt or that. It seems as though there were a thousand ways to make wine. This is all wrong. Such multiplicity only perplexes. The simplest thing in the world is to make wine; or, rather, wine is not made, it makes itself. Simply express juice, and let it stand. That makes wine; that is the whole of it.

For domestic wines, which people will drink, treatment is required. Here sugar must be added, that is all. Were there sugar enough in the berries—currants, rhubarb, etc.—it would come under the head of grape wine. Each man may judge as to the amount of sugar he wants. Some people like sweeter and some sourer wine. Make to suit your taste, and the sugar is your criterion. For wild, sour grapes, a pound of sugar to a quart of juice is the rule. Some have a quarter or even a third less. The more sugar, the sweeter will be your wine. All wines are alike in one respect, in the general wine taste. The difference is made by the flavor of the fruit. Thus the strawberry wine is different from the blackberry wine, and these different from the grape. The reason why the grape is best (to a cultivated taste,) is that its sugar is better—differing from cane sugar. A fruit should have its own sugar. But the grape flavor also is excellent. Flavor and sugar unite in the grape; and hence it makes the best wine, so good that it is called the only wine.

But a man can help to make wine—help just as he does in anything—that is, he can see that only pure, ripe grapes are used; that vessels are clean; in a word, that everything is done in a workmanlike way. This will improve the article just as any article is improved by care in the production. Give, then, the grapes a chance to ripen thoroughly their fruit, and a good chance for fermentation in clean vessels. If the temperature is low, (in the long stage of fermentation,) the wine will be the better, but it will take the longer to make it. In Europe, casks are sunk sixty feet in the earth. That gives uniformity, as well as a low temperature.—F. G., in the Rural World.

—The workmen employed at a marl pit, Hanley, England, recently came upon an enormous fossil calamite seven feet in diameter and of at present unascertained height. The outer rind, of the thickness of a quarter of an inch, has been completely carbonized, while the whole of the hollow portion of the reed is compactly filled with stone abounding with impressions of calamites, ferns and other vegetable exuviæ, of the carboniferous period. The uncovered portion of the fossil is about seventy feet from the surface. Mr. Hampton, the proprietor of the pit, intends to present it to the museum of the Mechanics' Institute at Hanley.

—A tanner in New York is experimenting in tanning cat fish skins, which it is thought will make good leather. The cat fish of the Western waters, it is said, sometimes weighs from one to two hundred pounds. It is time that our rat skins were beginning to be utilized. At the present enormous price of gloves, our inventors and manufacturers ought to be equal to doing something with our undeniable plethora of raw material in the shape of rats. Rat catching for the glove makers is a great business in Paris and other European cities. Our rats want reconstructing, badly.

YOUNG MEN.

Most young men regard the want of a rich father as a great misfortune, and as a sufficient excuse for a failure to succeed in life. Money and the advantages it brings—education, influence and a "start" in life—are regarded as almost essential to success. They overlook the feeling of dependence it cherishes and the enervating effect it produces. They forget that the proudest and most hardy oak is ever self-sustaining and is nourished into strength and power by resisting itself the force of winds and storms, and not by being protected by others. They neglect, too, the pages of biography which abound in examples of men who, from poverty, have attained eminence in every sphere of life, whether it be in accumulating wealth or acquiring knowledge or in invention, discovery or in any of the professions; while comparatively few so distinguished were nourished in the lap of ease and wealth. Their own observation, too, might correct their erroneous impressions and stimulate them to energy for self-elevation. All around them they may see young men possessing every apparent advantage, unambitious, indolent, prodigal of time and money, waiting for the portion of goods that is to fall to them, that they may spend it. On the other hand they may see multitudes of poor, but industrious, earnest and rising young men, who, if spared, are certainly destined to make a mark in the world. Instead, therefore, of allowing this absence of the ease and luxuries of wealth to discourage them, it should give them heart and stimulate ambition. PARTON, who has written the interesting biographies of Commodore VANDERBILT, J. GORDON BENNETT, JOHN C. CALHOUN and HENRY CLAY, in one of these articles says: "Let us never again commend any one for 'rising' from obscurity to eminence, but reserve our special homage for those who have become respectable human beings in spite of having had every advantage procured for them by rich fathers."

FROM our article yesterday, entitled, "Who Are Citizens?" it was our intention to strike out every allusion to Judge Stowe and the case pending before him. One such allusion escaped our notice on revision. Our purpose was to discuss the question abstractly, making the existing case simply the occasion. Our readers will confer a favor on us by understanding the article in this sense. It is stated that we misapprehend Judge Stowe's position in this matter. When he makes a decision, if the case shall take such a turn as to call upon him for that duty, we shall be careful to present our readers with a full and explicit statement of the grounds on which he rests.

LOUISIANA is in trouble about its levees. The State had negotiated a loan of four millions of dollars to put them in repair. The removal of Gov. WELLS and the appointment of Mr. FLANDERS as Governor, by General SHERIDAN, and superadded thereto, the supplemental reconstruction bill, now in the hands of the President, by which the existing Governments of the seceding States are declared to be illegal and void; have frightened the capitalists, who naturally want to know, when paying over their money, that they are getting actual security for it.

To help both parties out of the difficulty, General B. F. BUTLER suggests that the bonds be signed by Governor FLANDERS. The capitalists do not understand how Mr. FLANDERS's signature as Governor by military appointment, will make the bonds good while the Government contracting the debt is illegal and void. The objection of the capitalists is well taken.

What means will be devised to bridge this dilemma it would be useless to predict. It is certainly most desirable to have the matter satisfactorily arranged, so that the inundations of the river may be speedily guarded against. But this inconvenience the people of Louisiana have brought on themselves. If, when the rebel armies surrendered, those people had recognized the fact that they were conquered, and had accepted the situation in good faith, their State might, months ago, have been restored to its old rank in the Union. They did no such thing. As soon as they were beaten they assumed that the war and their overthrow had settled nothing; that their resistance of the Government had in no respect changed their relations thereto; and that whatever rights the Constitution gave them they still retained as absolutely as ever. This argumentation was such as might be expected from a fifth-rate attorney; but was such as no statesman would patiently listen to for a single instant. Statesmen know that wars go through nations as plow-shares; and that the event must determine what shall follow after.

The evil Louisiana has brought upon itself it must bear as best it can, though the lighter it may prove, the better shall we be satisfied.

IT HAS BEEN APPARENT for some time that the Italian Party of Action, headed by GARIBALDI, was meditating the seizure of Rome. A day or two ago, cable telegrams announced that the Pope was so much alarmed that he had given orders for restoring many of the batteries which formerly protected the city; that he had applied to the Emperor of France for assistance; and that the Emperor, in response, had notified GARIBALDI that none but French batteries would be restored.

This seemed like an attempt to put the Pope off with words that signified nothing. That the Pope should restore batteries which the French originally erected was natural enough. That he should restore no others was probable, for the French doubtless made wise selections of spots for defences and carried up all that were required. But, unless French guns, manned by French troops, and covered by the French flag, were found in these batteries, this reminder as to the origin of the batteries could not be expected to deter the enterprise or shake the courage of GARIBALDI.

Yesterday, there was a report that NAPOLEON had gone further; even assuring the Pope that in case of extremity he should have all needful help. We do not fully credit this report. If NAPOLEON has resolved to maintain the temporalities of the Pope, it is hardly conceivable that he will wait until the Italian patriots shall take possession of the territories of the Church; for then there would be great danger of a formidable struggle, in which nations not a few might be involved.

WHILE statesmen are seeking by al possible means to make San Francisco the gate-way for the traffic between this country and a large part of Europe, with China and India, the politicians on the Pacific coast have taken alarm at one of the inevitable consequences of this gigantic scheme. The recently-constructed platform of the Republican party of California has this inscription:

"That the importation of Chinese or any other people of the Mongolian race into the Pacific States or Territories is in every respect injurious and degrading to American labor, by forcing it into unjust and ruinous competition, and an evil that should be restricted by legislation and abated by such legal and constitutional means as are in our power."

Since the Chinese are finding less need than formerly of the famous wall they built to keep foreigners out of that country, the Californians may be able to buy it, and reset it around their border.

WHO ARE CITIZENS?

The Congress of the United States passed over the President's veto an Act known as the Civil Rights Bill. This Act declares—

"That all persons born in the United States, and not subject to any foreign power, excluding Indians not taxed, are citizens of the United States; and such citizens, of every race and color, without regard to any previous condition of slavery or involuntary servitude, except as punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall have the same rights in every State and Territory of the United States, to make and enforce contracts, to sue, be parties, and give evidence," &c., &c.

Now, this Act does not specially enumerate all the things which a citizen may do and enjoy; but it does make plain that blacks and whites, born in this country, are all citizens alike; entitled to the same rights and liable to the same duties.

This is the doctrine we enforced yesterday. This Act, in its letter or spirit, sweeps into the limbo of the departed, all the ideas of caste entertained by the Courts during the "Dark Days" of the Domination of Slavery.

GEN. M. JEFF. THOMPSON, a distinguished officer in the rebel service, from Missouri, recently gave a public endorsement of Gen. Longstreet's position, and advised the acceptance of the Reconstruction Act. He was instantly assailed by democratic journals, north and south. To one of them he replies, and his indignant response gives us a little insight into Southern history during the rebellion. Democracy there, as here, consisted in avoiding conscription, and fighting with words when other men were using boyonets:

NEW YORK, July 15, 1867.

Editor of the Banner, Yazoo, Miss:

SIR:—I see in the New York Herald of this day an extract from your paper of the 5th inst., in which you have, in your opposition to certain letters written by gentlemen of the South, thought proper to use very disrespectful language about your superiors. From the style in which you speak I judge you to have been one of those miserable, dirty dogs who published an eight-by-ten sheet during the war for no earthly purpose but to avoid conscription, and who, to cover up their own cowardice, tried to, and in some instances did, break down some of the purest and noblest men in the Confederacy. Probably some of Albert Sidney Johnson's blood is on your hands, and you may be one of the hounds that barked at Joseph E. Johnston, and it may be, if your paper had strength enough and was published to the end of the Confederacy, that many of our mournful mishaps can be partially attributed to your meanness. You should have started earlier, remained longer, endured more hardship, braved more dangers, and surrendered with more regret than either of the gentlemen you name before you should have presumed to have written such an article. I cannot for an instant imagine you have been a soldier, and suppose you must be a "broken down politician," an "old dog," or a "little pup;" and, therefore, I will let you pass until I return South, when I will inquire into your antecedents, and if you are worthy of notice I will teach you better manners.

M. JEFF. THOMPSON, of New Orleans.

Niagara Falls.

A correspondent of the New York Gazette, among other things, says: The table rock, a famous landmark, it will be remembered, was to have been blown to atoms last autumn. The occasional falling of portions of this rock and the constant danger attending the visits of pilgrims thereto, finally induced the town authorities of Clifton to take the matter in hand and unanimously condemn it to destruction. Drillers were set to work upon its summit, the day of wrath was fixed, and at the appointed time the artificial crevices in the rock were charged with gunpowder for its final doom.

I remember the kindly obituary notice paid it by the Evening Gazette and a host of other sympathizing journals. Visitors thronged the cliffs on both sides to witness an explosion calculated to rend high heaven and shuddering earth, by which the condemned rock was to be blown into cobble stones. A long fuse reaching half way from the Falls to the Clifton House, was cautiously lighted; the people scattered for safety. The shock came; but when the sulphurous vapors floated away to mingle with the mist of waters, Table Rock, so long reported to be tottering to its fall, remained unmutilated and unmoved! The Cliftonians rubbed their eyes in astonishment, and the spectators retired with a half suspicion of being sold. Baffled in their undertaking, the Canucks rested for a season, and granted the object of their fears a temporary reprieve. But latterly, you know, the province of Canada has become a "Dominion," and the dignity of such an elevation, more than ever, demands the sacrifice of Table Rock. The second movement was inaugurated last week, and yesterday, when I visited the locality to take a formal farewell of the seductive spot, I found the base of the cliff completely perforated with drill holes, waiting to be charged, while a party of busy workmen still pushed on the undermining process. Saturday, the 13th inst., is fixed for the demolition, and if there is any virtue in nitro-glycerine, Table Rock will from that time forward be numbered among the things that were. I am strongly tempted to be at the death.

The Murder of the English Consul at Brunswick, Ga.

The telegraph has announced the killing of the acting English Consul E. G. Westmoreland, at Brunswick, Georgia. From accounts in the Georgia papers it appears that Westmoreland was engaged in blockade-running during the war, and gained considerable wealth. Since the war he has been acting as British Consul at Brunswick. There he made the acquaintance of a beautiful young lady, the daughter of a prominent citizen, to whom he successfully paid his addresses. At the same time a young man named Captain E. J. Martin endeavored to win the affections of the young lady, and a coolness sprang up between the two. An expression by Martin one day was construed by Westmoreland into an insult, and he challenged his rival. Arrangements were made for a duel, but the friends of the parties succeeded in adjusting the quarrel. The ill-feeling continued, however. On the 5th instant, Westmoreland and the young lady were married. After the ceremony Westmoreland went to his office to make arrangements for the bridal tour, and while sitting there conversing with a gentleman, Martin came up, and walked directly in front of him, without a word of warning and explanation, drew a pistol, and fired the ball taking effect in Westmoreland's groin. Westmoreland sprang to his feet, when Martin fired again, shooting him through the breast. Westmoreland seized his assailant by the arm and asked, "Martin, what have I done to you that you shoot me?" These were the last words he spoke. He fell to the floor and died in about fifteen minutes. Martin made no attempt to escape, and surrendered to a squad of soldiers. The people were so much incensed against him that he was sent to Savannah for safe keeping. Captain Martin is said to be a young man of excellent reputation. He served on the staff of General Johnson in Virginia, and is the owner of a large rice plantation. His friends contend that other motives than jealously prompted him, and justify his conduct.

DIAMONDS.—Some time ago one of our revenue officers distinguished himself by issuing a circular in regard to the personal baggage of passengers arriving from abroad. One of the finest points in this circular was that which specified that certain articles of luxury might be admitted free if their value was proportioned to the "station of the owner." This at once raised the query what social "station" entitled the wearing of diamonds and other jewelry. An article now before us enables us to form a judgment on this perplexing subject. It contains a list of several owners of the more valuable diamonds and precious stones worn in this country. Of these we find that a negro minstrel has a single diamond pin worth $3,000. A "late negro minstrel" had pins and rings valued at $25,000. A favorite dancer has $4,000 invested in diamonds. The wife of a negro minstrel is said to have the enormous amount of $70,000 in jewels. A circus clown has a single diamond valued at $2,000, and a cluster diamond worth $1,000. A "retired" circus performer has a thousand dollars more than this invested in these vanities.

—The portrait of Queen Victoria, on exhibition in Philadelphia, though a good enough specimen of art, is pronounced by a person who claims to know, as no more resembling the Pueen than if it had been painted for an entirely different person. The original (for Mr. Peabody's is only a copy,) is now on exhibition at the Royal Academy, and the authorities have cruelly placed near it certain photographs of the Queen, as if purposely to show how bad a draughtsman the sun is. The whole town is laughing at the artist for his ridiculous flattery of his loyal subject.

The Beauties of Bible Language.

If we need higher illustration not only of the power of natural objects to adorn language and gratify taste, but proof that here we find the highest conceivable beauty, we would appeal at once to the Bible. Those most opposed to its teachings have acknowledged the beauty of its language, and this is due mainly to the exquisite use of natural objects for illustration. It does indeed draw from every field. But when the emotional nature was to be appealed to, the reference was at once to natural objects, and throughout all its books, the stars, and flowers, and gems, are prominent as illustrations of the beauties of religion and the glories of the church.

"The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them, and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose." "The mountains and the hills shall break forth before you in singing, and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands. Instead of the thorn shall come up the fir tree, and instead of the briar shall come up the myrtle tree."

The power and beauty of the same objects appear in the Savior's teachings. The fig and the olive, the sparrow and the lily of the field, give peculiar force and beauty to the great truths they were used to illustrate.

The Bible throughout is remarkable in this respect. It is a collection of books written by authors far removed from each other in time, and place, and mental culture, but throughout the whole nature is exalted as a revelation of God. Its beauty and sublimity are appealed to arouse the emotions to reach the moral and religious nature. This element of unity runs through all the books where reference to nature can be made. One of the adaptations of the Bible to the nature of man is found in the sublime and perfect representation of the natural world, by which nature is ever made to proclaim the character and perfection of God. No language can be written that so perfectly sets forth the grand and terrible in nature and its forces, as we hear when God answers Job out of the whirlwind. No high appreciation of the beautiful, and of God as the author of beauty, was ever expressed than when our Savior said of the lilies of the field: "I say unto you that even Solomon, in all his glory, was not arrayed like one of these;" and then adds: "If God so clothe the grass of the field"—ascribing the element of beauty in every leaf and opening bud to the Creator's skill and power.—Prof. Chadbourne.

Wisdom from Beecher's Story.

From the last installment of Mr. Beecher's "Norwood," in the Ledger, we clip the following sententious bits of wisdom:

The important organic changes in our zone take place at the second full seven of years, produce important results even in the coldest temperaments and in the slenderest natures. There is frequently the appearance of new forces in the mind, the displacement of old ones, and an entire change of proportion and balance in the moral and intellectual faculties. Aspirations begin to quicken the soul. Ambitions grow nobler. A scorn of all authority which does not conform to reason or to generous views of duty is frequently seen, and just as frequently misunderstood. The transition from girlhood to womanhood is marked by the development of sentiment rather than by conflict of passion. In estimating the causes of character men ascribe much to circumstances, much to training, and much to the fullness and force of one's original endowments. But there are other elements more subtle, but of profound value in the structure of that most wonderful of all architectures—the character; built up of invisible materials, without sound or force, permanent in its nature, yet in form flexible and prolific in change. Chief among these is to be reckoned sympathy of faculties and unity of action. All natures come to their manhood through some experience of fermentation! With some it is ferment of passions; with some of the affections; and with richly endowed natures it is the ferment of thought and of the moral nature. Some natures squander life-force in intermittent efforts. Their endowments are ample, but they are frittered away uselessly. But where the happy temperament unites in an original and spontaneous harmony of all the parts of one's nature, the augmentation force is but a small part of the good fortune. There is a breadth, a depth, a fertility of experience which yields to single lives more of joy than is possessed by scores of ordinary men.

—A South Danvers schoolboy has written the following composition on his native town: "South Danvers is in the United States. It is bounded by Salem and reaches to Middletown. Its principal river is Goldthwaite's brook, which empties into Salem harbor. Its principal lake is the mill pond, which is dry in the summer. Its principal productions are leather, onions, the South church and George Peabody. South Danvers has many religious sects, among which are the Orthodox, who worship their minister, the Spiritualists, who worship everything, and the Unitarians who worship nothing."

—The five newspapers in Portland, Maine, which were burned out by the great fire of last year and since then have occupied temporary quarters in and out of the city, have at last found an abiding place, and like a happy family, are now housed under the same roof.

A TIMELY WARNING.

It is especially important at this time, when the markets of the United States are flooded with the direst poisons, under the name of imported liquors and when domestic compounds purporting to be medicinal, but not a whit less pernicious, are heralded to the world as "sovereign remedies," that the public should fully understand the facts. Be it known, then, that while all the diffusive stimulants called liquors are impure, and all the Tonics containing alcohol are manufactured with a fiery article containing amyl or fusil oil, a mortal poison, HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS contain none of these things, but are a combination of pure essence of Rye with the pure juices of the most valuable stomachic, antibilious and aperient herbs and plants, and that as a safe and rapid remedy for Dyspepsia and all its kindred complaints, the preparation stands before the world without a rival or competitor. Its sales to-day are equal to the combined sales of all the other tonics advertised in the United States, and the certificates which authenticate its usefulness are signed by individuals of the highest standing in every professional calling and walk of life. Beware of imitations and imposters.

PINUS CANADENSIS.

A tree which is abundant in Canada, Nova Scotia, and the more northern parts of the New England States, and is also found in the elevated and mountainous regions of the Middle States and abounds in medicinal virtues. Dr. Swett of Boston, has prepared a medicine from the sweet inside bark of the pine tree, called POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, which is of rare value in all debilitated states of the kidneys. It acts like a charm in all diseases of mucous membranes, enabling them to regain their lost tone and energy. It will be found well adapted to all those diseases where Buchu has been tried and failed. It is likewise well suited to chronic coughs, and an infallible specific for old and debilitated cases of asthma. Many persons who at first only took a bottle of this medicine, to try, afterwards came back and got a bottle or half dozen, which effected radical cures of diseases of the bladder and kidney of years standing.

Diabetes, a disease that has been looked upon as among the incurables, is immediately relieved by it. Notice the certificate of Asa Goodnue published some time ago.

The United States Dispensatory, speaking of the pine, says: "It is prescribed in leucorrhœa, gleet, and other diseases of the urinary passages, in piles and chronic inflammation or ulceration of the bowels, in chronic catarrhal affections, and in various forms of rheumatism." It is exceedingly valuable in all gravelly affections, bloody urine, and where there is red and white sediment. It can be taken without interruption to one's usual avocations; and instead of sickening, produces a bracing, healthy power of endurance and vigor. Price, $1 per bottle; six for $5. Ask for POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND. For sale by the gross, dozen or single bottle, at DR. KEYSER'S Great Medicine Store, 140 Wood street.

BELTING AND PACKING OFFICE OF W. & A. J. PACKARD,
Youngstown, Ohio, June 17th, 1867.
Messrs. Burke & Barnes, Pittsburgh, Pa.
GENTLEMEN—We ship you, to-day, by railroad, a safe of your make, for a few repairs. The safe went through the disastrous fire that occurred here on the 6th of March last, burning our store and warehouse, and we are glad to inform you that the papers taken out of the safe after the fire were not harmed in the least. We did not suppose any safe, especially so small a size, could possibly stand such a fire, and when we discovered the papers all safe and sound, we were agreeably disappointed. We will give you an order for a large size safe when we get into our new store. Truly yours,
W. & A. J. PACKARD.

The Pittsburgh Gazette

The Saengerfest.

The North American says: For several days Philadelphia has been alive with Germans, and redolent of musical societies and German inscriptions, and all the peculiarities of the Teutonic world. This annual musical festival has been held here before, but never created quite so much stir as on this occasion. In some respects it does much good, by diffusing a taste for superior music among the masses of the people who under other circumstances would not be musical at all. Common observers have of late years remarked a great improvement among the Americans in their ability to sing and play in harmony, even in chance companies, without previous rehearsal, and we must award to our German friends their share of the credit of this, though it would be folly to say that most of it does not result from the general improvement of our people in civilized culture and refinement.

We do not undertake to say that in vocal music the Germans are safe to follow, for we well know how widely professors of music differ on that head, and especially in regard to the peculiar construction of their vocal harmonies. But we do say that the works of their composers, whether of vocal or instrumental music, are more fitted to the temper of an intellectual people, contain more food for mental digestion, and may be dwelt upon longer without weariness than those of any other nation. Indeed, it could hardly be otherwise, for while in Italy music is a great passion, it is only one of the many others, and not the greatest, while in Germany it seems to be the all absorbing thought.

From these German singing societies the choirs of our churches and the choruses of our concerts and other public displays are supplied. They create centres of musical competition where otherwise there would be none, and in the generous and good-natured struggle for the prizes at contests like the present, a test of merit is presented for which thousands all over the country are constantly in preparation. We regard these public displays as of value only so far as they stimulate the musical talent that is to influence people in private life. If they make music the companion of the fireside, for rich and poor alike, they undoubtedly exert a great influence for good.

We regret that the musical fetes of the Germans do not bring us any celebration devoted to instrumental music, in which they are admitted to excel all other races. An instrumental competition similar to the Saengerfest would be something worth travelling many a mile to hear, and it would, moreover, have the effect of stimulating a struggle for pre-eminence among professors of music productive of vast improvement. Let us, however, be thankful for what we have in the Saengerfest, since it enlivens the routine life of America very materially, and is always a grateful recurrence.

Suffering for His Wife.

A slander case, peculiar in its surroundings, transpired yesterday. The wife of John Sweeney, residing in the Third ward, it is alleged, cast imputations upon the chastity of a daughter of Margaret Gallagher. The parties are neighbors, and the circumstance very naturally caused considerable talk. Mr. Sweeney was appealed to in the matter, and he suggested that his wife should be arrested if she had made the assertion alleged. Acting upon this suggestion, Mrs. Gallagher entered suit for slander, a capias was issued, and Mr. Gallagher, to his surprise, was arrested with his wife and taken to the Sheriff's office. He protested that he knew nothing about the matter, that his wife was alone concerned, but it was all to no purpose, the writ read "John Sweeney and wife." It was suggested that he might secure bail, the amount required being only three hundred dollars. "Devil a bit," said he, "I wan't no bail; won't have it, if you bring it; I'll go to jail." It not being required to commit both man and wife, the Sheriff told the latter she might go home to her children. Sweeney, as he passed into the prison, turned to his wife and said: "Get out of that house, now; it won't be good for you when I get out o' this." He looked what he meant, and his wife looked as if she understood him. Some time after Sweeny was released, having concluded to accept of the bail tendered for him, but it not being certain his feeling toward his wife had also changed, it was suggested to the parties who had secured his release that they should be on the alert to interfere in case he attempted to gratify his "assault and battery" disposition. Mr. S. thought it hard that he should be made to suffer for his wife for too freely exercising her tongue in defaming the character of her neighbors, and so do we think; but under the law there is no help for it. We remember of an instance of a hard working, honest laborer remaining in jail for five months under similar circumstances. His wife, in his absence, had slandered a neighbor, and suit being entered, he was arrested and lodged in jail, where he remained for the length of time stated before the case was disposed of, being unable to procure bail.

Pennsylvania Nickel.

"It is not generally known," observes the Franklin Repository, "that among the most valuable mineral productions of our State is Nickel, the metal so largely used in the coinage of cents. Fourteen miles from Lancaster are the Gap mines and smelting works. The mines were discovered many years ago, and about the time of the revolutionary war were worked for copper, but were soon abandoned, the crude machinery of that period being ill adapted to working them profitably. Two generations had passed away, and the circumstance had been forgotten, when about fifteen years ago the mines were re-opened by a company of capitalists from Philadelphia, since which they have been steadily worked. They were reopened with the view of obtaining copper, but the ore was soon discovered to be richer in nickel, a more valuable mineral, and since then they have been worked for that metal exclusively. The introduction of nickel cents by the government, and the war which rendered small change so scarce, gave great impetus to these works. The mines are now owned mainly, we believe, by Joseph Wharton, of Philadelphia. The final working of the nickel ore is done in Camden. In all, about one hundred and fifty men are employed at the mines and smelting works.

A Strange Proceeding.

Some time since information was made before Alderman Lindsay, of the Sixth ward, against one G. M. Evans, for surety of the peace. The defendant was arrested, and a gentleman, too much engaged at the time to go to the office of the magistrate, sent word that he would become security for Evans' appearance. This was satisfactory, and Evans was released from custody. The information was returned to the office of the Clerk of the Court, and entered No. 460 on the June calendar. It seems the case has not been disposed of by the Court, and on Tuesday, Alderman Lindsay, meeting Evans on the street, arrested him, took him to his office, and made out a commitment, on which he was lodged in jail. Yesterday bail was entered in the Court Clerk's office, and Evans released from prison. What Alderman Lindsay had to do with the case, after the return of the information to Court, we cannot see. We judge he had properly nothing to do with it, that this arrest and committal of Evans on Tuesday was without authority of law, and that he is answerable in some shape for so doing.

Appointments by the Governor.

Governor Geary has made the following appointments:

Superintendent of Public Printing—Jas Youngman, of Sunbury.

Commission to Investigate Prison Systems, under provisions of joint resolution, approved April 17th, 1867—Hon. Alexander Henry, of Philadelphia; Hon. N. B. Browne, of Philadelphia; Hon. Wm. H. Armstrong, of Williamsport; Hon. Wm. M. Watts, of Cumberland county; Theo. H. Nevin, Esq., of Allegheny county.

Committee to investigate matters connected with the Antietam and Gettysburg Cemeteries, under provisions of joint resolution, approved April 12th, 1867—General James L. Selfridge, of Bethlehem; General Hector Tyndale, of Philadelphia; Colonel E. B. Moore, of West Chester.

Mysterious.

The Coatesville (Pa.) Union says: Our fellow townsman, William R. Ash, one day last week, while putting on his coat, felt something on his arm near the elbow, which he supposed at the time was a small pimple. On examination he found there was something more than usual there, and eventually extracted a needle one and a half inches long. It was very much corroded, and had evidently been in his person for considerable time. The mystery is, when and how it found its way into his person, as he has no recollection of ever having met with an accident that would explain this phenomenon. The operation of extraction was successfully accomplished, and we are happy to state the patient is doing well.

Base Ball Playing

Has been indulged in to such an extent in the streets of Allegheny city that citizens have come to regard it as a nuisance, and complaint has been made to Mayor Morrison, with a view to stopping the amusement, to the boys, but annoyance to persons who have been injured by being struck with balls, and the occupants of houses the windows of which have been broken. The Mayor's edict is that the boys shall not play ball on the street, the public grounds affording ample room for exercise in the game.

Horace Strickland, son of Dr. Horace Strickland, of Cleveland, Ohio, is under $5,000 bonds for trial, for a recent attempt to murder his father by the application of chloroform and a hatchet. The evidence proved numerous threats by the son to take his father's life because he refused him money and consent to his marriage. The family is wealthy, of high social position, and the affair creates considerable excitement.

It is reported that a man named Alfred Myers, proprietor of the Sherman House, Petroleum Centre, was arrested at that place by a United States detective, charged with passing counterfeit government currency. A hearing was had, which resulted in his being held in six thousand dollars bonds for trial.

New Management.—Rev. D. H. A. McLean, D. D., formerly principal of the Pittsburgh Central High School, has taken charge of the Beaver Seminary for the education of young ladies. He is abundantly qualified for the position, being a thorough scholar and an accomplished gentleman.

The Erie Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in session at New Castle, Pa., elected the following persons as delegates to the General Conference: Revs. W. F. Day, G. W. Maltby, R. H. Hurlburt, R. A. Caruthers, E. J. L. Baker, G. W. Clark, J. Greer, and J. Peate.

Hand Hurt.—Thursday morning, Anton Rausher, employed at the nut factory of Lewis, Oliver & Phillips, had his hand caught in some machinery, by which it was very badly crushed and lacerated. Dr. A. G. Walter was called and dressed the mutilated hand.

A Sabbath School Convention is to be held at Oil City on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. It is to be held under the auspices of the State Sabbath School Association, Rev. Alfred Taylor, secretary.

The Colored People throughout the State of Pennsylvania are making extensive arrangements to celebrate the first of August, the anniversary of the West India emancipation.

Two horses were stolen near Plumer on Saturday last, and other animals are missing from various parts of the county. A vigilance committee is talked of.

Pennsylvania furnishes seventy-three and three-fourths per cent. of all the coal produced in the United States.

A Lodge of Good Templars is about being started in Oil City.

Malicious Mischief.—Jacob Richards made information yesterday before Alderman Thomas against John Collins, charging him with malicious mischief. Richards alleges that he was driving a wagon and had stopped at the Soho toll gate to pay toll, when the defendant maliciously drove against his wagon, injuring it and doing damage to the amount of thirty dollars. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Collins.

Alleged Nuisance.—Jacob Tchudy and Frederick Baldinger were yesterday held to bail by Justice Arent, of Reserve township, on complaint of James Bell, to answer a charge of maintaining a nuisance, in pursuing the business of blacksmithing on Chestnut street, in the Third ward, Allegheny.

The average number of deaths in the city of Erie since the 10th of May, is a fraction over two a week.

Seventy Million feet of lumber have been shipped from Williamsport since the first of January.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

SECOND BANKERS' AND MERCHANTS' GRAND PRESENTATION ENTERTAINMENT, will most positively take place at IRVING HALL, on the evening of July 24th, 1867. The largest, greatest and most successful enterprise ever inaugurated in the world. A Present with every ticket.

The First Grand Concert was given on July 4th. It was a grand success. The mammoth Hall was filled with the elite of the city. The audience appointed a committee of nine of the leading Bankers and Merchants, to examine the corresponding numbers to the tickets and the Register Books, to see that all is correct before making the grand distribution of prizes at the last Concert, on the 24th of July.

A gift with every ticket. The Grand Distribution of presents will be conducted on the Mutual Benefit principle. A pro-rata Distribution of Profits to Ticket holders. Capital, $1,287,148. Tickets, $1 each. A present with every ticket.

A reference to the number of presents and the general plan of distribution, given below, will convince the most skeptical of the great advantages which will accrue to all who participate in the enterprise; and the commercial and financial standing of the company, and the managers and bankers thereof, will, they hope, prove a sufficient guarantee of the fairness and impartiality with which everything in connection with it will be conducted, and that the interests of ticket holders will be most scrupulously watched over and guarded. In fact it is the desire of the managers to conduct every transaction for the mutual benefit of whoever shall purchase a ticket, and scrupulously to avoid any and everything which could in the slightest degree diminish the profits which are likely to accrue to all who invest. List of Presents: Cash—One cash present at $75,000; one cash present at $50,000; one cash present at $25,000; two cash presents at $10,000; three cash presents at $5,000; four cash presents at $3,000; five cash presents at $2,000; eight cash presents at $1,000; fourteen cash presents at $500; twenty cash presents at $300; twenty five cash presents at $200; forty cash presents at $100; seventy-five cash presents at $50; one hundred and forty cash presents at $25; one hundred and fifty cash presents at $20; one hundred and seventy-five cash presents at $10; two hundred cash presents at $5—861 cash presents, amounting to $250,000. To this end they have consigned the sale of tickets and the registering of the same to CLARK, WEBSTER & CO., Bankers and Managers, No. 62 Broadway, New York, who will keep the records in their custody until the day of the grand presentation entertainment, when they will be handed over to a committee selected by the audience to make an impartial distribution of presents. Speaking of those diseases, and diseases arising from the excess of mercury, he states that no remedy is equal to the Extract of Sarsaparilla; its power is extraordinary, more so than any other drug I am acquainted with. It is, in the strictest sense, a tonic with this invaluable attribute, that it is applicable to a state of the system so sunken, and yet so irritable as renders other substances of the tonic class unavailable or injurious.

The New York stock quotations to-day, as received by Mr. P. R. Mertz, were as follows: Gold, 140; Eighty-one bonds, 110; Five Twenties, 1862, 111¼; Five Twenties, 1864 108¾; Five Twenties, 1865, 109⅛; Consols, 107⅛; Seven Thirties, 107⅛@107¼; Ten Forties, 101⅞. Stocks—Erie Railroad, 71¾; Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 92¼; Chicago and Rock Island, 98⅛; Chicago and Northwestern, 45¾; Chicago and Northwestern preferred 70¾; Fort Wayne Railroad, 102¼; Michigan Southern Railroad, 79¾; New York Central, 106¼; Reading, 104¼. Mining shares—Corydon, 1,80; Quartz Hill, 1,05; Gregory, 6,50; Smith & Paramalee, 5,25; Western Union Telegraph Company, 47¾.

Gold opened at 139⅝, but under orders to buy, went up to 140¼, and closed firm. Government securities are dull and lower, especially bonds of 1862 and 1864; the currency bonds are but little affected, but there is more disposition to sell than to buy. There is but little doing in Railroad shares, and prices tend downward for want of outside support; low priced fancy shares are more desired than the solid dividend paying shares, which shows a very unhealthy state of affairs in Wall street. Mining shares have recovered, and are better again, but not much in demand by real investors.

Local money market easier, and stocks and Bank shares in better request at current quotations.

—The New York correspondent of the Boston Commercial Bulletin, writes as follows concerning the failure of the widely known dry goods firm of Geo. A. Wicks & Co.:

"The suspension of the heavy dry goods house of Geo. A. Wicks & Co., a few days ago, created intense excitement in business circles. The most extravagant rumors as to the insignificance of their assets as compared with their liabilities were afloat, and dry goods paper suffered seriously in the market. The failure is attributed to losses by depreciation of stock during the past year; but enormous current expenses—such as $52,000 per year, for rent, must have contributed not a little to the disaster. At a meeting of creditors held on the 8th inst., it was shown that the gross assets of the firm amounted to $1,425,245 07; gross liabilities, $1,756,763 30; deficit say, $340,000. The firm has a rather singular history. At its original formation, in 1861, Wicks contributed $100,000, and another partner $9,000—making a total capital of $109,000. In 1865, the style of the firm was Wicks, Smith & Co., and the concern was supposed to be worth $1,500,000—Wicks being personally credited with a property of $750,000. In June, 1865 the firm was dissolved—C. S. Smith, who had never put a dollar into the business, retiring with $250,000. At this time and after Smith's retirement, the firm was supposed to be worth $850,000. The only contributions of capital that were made from the start up to January last, are stated above, amounting to only $109,000. At the last named date Libby put in $20,000 and Phillips $30,000. From this small beginning there was drawn by the several partners from 1861 to the day of suspension, $920,353 43—Geo. A. Wicks getting $479,494, Smith $250,000, as above, and other partners smaller sums."

—The New York Times says: "The preparations for the fall business continues to increase, and the importation of general foreign merchandise is large. The dry goods entries are as yet moderate in amount. The domestic commission houses participate in the calculation that the abundant harvests throughout the country will give them a paying trade for the fall consumption. Several additional dry goods concerns have suspended payments because of the unsatisfactory results of the winter and spring business, the decline in the value of their goods on hand, and their extravagant rents and other expenses. The losses from these failures are divided between the manufacturers on the other side, the American importers and the domestic commission men. The bankrupt estates will wind up, paying from 40@60c on the dollar. The banks hold but a moderate amount of their paper under discount, and most of this with two names."

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, July 18, 1866. }

CRUDE—There is no abatement in the excitement in the crude market, the sales in the aggregate to-day being the largest of the season, reaching nearly forty-three thousand barrels. Compared with yesterday, prices have still further advanced, and this evening spot oil closed firm at thirteen, an advance of about one hundred per cent. within the last three weeks. Future deliveries have also advanced materially, and those who contracted largely thirty days since for all the year, their option, could now realize a fortune, and those who bought for all 1868, at 12¼, same option, may be placed in the same category. A private telegram from "Bill" Haldeman, at Oil City this afternoon quoted at $5.50, "and everybody crazy." We had the following sales reported:

REFINED—There was but comparatively little done in bonded oil to-day, the excitement in Crude taking the attention of nearly all the brokers, but the market nevertheless is firm, and prices are well sustained. Sales were: 1000 bbls for July delivery in Philadelphia, buyers option, at 33c; 500 for September, same option, at 27c, delivered on cars at works; 2000 bbls, 500 each for September, October, November and December, at 31c, delivered in Philadelphia; 500 for October, buyer's option, at 31c, and 500 for August, same option, at 33c, delivered in Philadelphia.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, July 18, 1867. }

There is a continued fair business doing in the general markets, and with a steady demand for most of the leading commodities, prices, although without quotable change, are firm and well maintained.

GROCERIES—There has been a steady business in the grocery market during the past week, and Sugars and Coffees have advanced. The advance in Coffee is owing to the upward movement in gold, while Sugars are tending upward in consequence of the increased demand in anticipation of a heavy crop of fruit throughout the country. Rib Coffee is quoted at 24@24½c for good; 25½c for prime, and 26½c for choice. Sugars—hard refined, 18c; "A" Coffee, 17c; "B" Coffee, 16½@16¾c; Extra "C," 16¼@16½c; choice Porto Rico, 13½@14c; prime, 13¼@13½c; prime Cuba, 13@13¼c; good do, 12½@13c; Sugar House, 11¼@11½c. Rice—Rangoon, 10½c; Carolina, 13c. Syrups range all the way from 65c@$1, according to quality. Porto Rico Molasses, 75c, and New Orleans, 90c. Teas—Young Hyson, $1@1,70; Gunpowder, $1,25@1,80; Imperial, $1,25@1,80; Oolong, 75c@1,25; Japan, $1@1,25. Spices—Pepper, 40c; Allspice, 37½c; Cinnamon, 75c; Cloves, 45c. Large No. 3 Mackerel have advanced $3 per bbl in the east.

GRAIN—There was a sale of 1400 bush new Wheat, on Wednesday, to arrive, on private terms—first sale this season. Oats firm and in demand but less excited and unchanged; we note small sales at 85@87. Corn may be quoted at 90@95c, but little offering. Rye is quiet and nominal at $1,25@1,30. No movement in Barley.

FLOUR—There is a continued fair demand, but the market is less excited, and prices remain unchanged. We continue quote at $11 50@12,50 for Spring Wheat; $13@14 for Winter Wheat; and $16,00@17,00 for fancy brands. Rye Flour is quoted at $8 50.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is firm with a continued fair jobbing demand but prices remain unchanged—11½c for Shoulders; 13½c for Ribbed, and 13@13½c for Clear Sides, and 21@22c for Sugar Cured Hams. Prime kettle rendered Lard is quoted at 13@13½c, and Mess Pork at $23,50@24,00.

CENTRAL LIVE-STOCK MARKET.

ARRIVALS OF STOCK DURING THE WEEK.

The following statement shows the number of cars of stock received at the Central Yards during the week ending Wednesday, July 17th:

CATTLE.

The market ruled firm again this week, and under the influence of a good eastern demand, prices, compared with last week, have still further advanced. There was an improved demand for stock cattle, one party alone taking nearly all the cattle of this description that was offered for shipment to Lancaster county, at prices ranging from 5½ to 6¾c, according to quality. The best grades of cattle, suitable for retailing in the eastern markets, may be quoted from one quarter to one-half cent per pound higher than last week, ranging from 8¼ to 8¾c. One New York firm bought two droves of extra Ohio cattle at 8¾, while so far as we could learn, 8¾c was the highest figure paid by Philadelphia shippers, and there was but one drove bought at that price for that market. Good to medium cattle sold at from 7½ to 8c, and the great proportion of cattle on sale this week were of this description, though as already stated, there were two or three extra droves, and they brought extra prices. Upon the whole, the market was a good one for holders, and with a demand fully up to the supply, cattle of all kinds sold readily, and that, too, at full prices.

SHEEP.

The supply of Sheep this week was remarkably light, not reaching half the number offered last week, and with a fair demand, the market ruled firm, and prices are from one-quarter to one-half a cent per pound higher. It should be borne in mind, however, that the improvement above noted was not in consequence of any improvement in the demand, but owing almost entirely to the greatly diminished arrivals. Had there been anything like the number of Sheep on sale this week that there was last week, prices would not have ruled any higher than they did last week.

RIVER NEWS.

The Silver Cloud No. 2, in charge of Captain B. C. Martin, follows the Messenger from Cincinnati to New Orleans.

M. J. Lewis has been elected President of the Atlantic and Mississippi Steamship Company, and the boats of the line will immediately commence running again.

The Louisville Courier says: Last year a fleet of coalboats came in from Pittsburgh with about 1,000,000 bushels of coal on the 27th of July.

Captains John Williams, John N. Shunk and A. Q. Ross, of Cincinnati, have been appointed a committee by the Steamboat's Association, to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce in securing a passage for large boats around the falls at Louisville, or the completion of the enlargement of the present canal.

The Dubuque Times says that Mr. Merry has recently tried his floating elevator in unloading and reloading barge cargoes of grain. It worked to a charm, and so certain is he of its success as an invention, and of the demand for its work, that he has ordered machinery of C. & S. Burt for eight elevators in addition to the six already provided for. It is said this invention will so cheapen freight rates, through saving of expense of manual labor and rapidity in reshipping grain, that it will cause an almost universal desire in the valley of the Mississippi to ship grain for the East via the river and ocean, and not by rail.

We take the following from the Louisville Courier: Henry L. Baily, pilot of the famous towboat Alps, writes us from Cairo, under date of Friday, the 12th, at 11 a. m., that the Alps had reached that point twenty-nine hours out from Louisville. She met the Nightingale at the head of Blue river Island, towboat Rochester at French Island; the Harry Dean, from Memphis, in a crippled condition, at the Sisters; a boat aground at the foot of Cumberland Island, and B. L. Hodge No. 2 at Cottonwood. The Alps passed all the boats left head of her the same day, and the pilot reports 5 feet water on the shoalest bars.

The bar in front of Evansville is showing itself. It has been crowded out near the middle of the river, and stretches further down in front of the city than ever known before. A river man of close observation, gives it as his opinion that it is washing down into the bend, and in another year the channel will come on the other side of it.

The steamer Ruth, which arrived at Saint Louis Saturday, from New Orleans, had the finest trip that left New Orleans in many a day. Amongst the passengers were a large number of the oldest and most respectable citizens of the Crescent City, many of them on a trip North for pleasure and health, while, at the same time, quite a number are leaving their homes never to return, preferring the quiet North to the turmoil in the South.

The Memphis Avalanche proposes to publish the names of all colored stewards who are identified with the Radical party of Tennessee. This course will prove a long one in the way of reconstruction, and our idea is that Congress can hold out as long as our obstreperous Southern brethren or the river reporter of the Avalanche. The following is the way he proposes to reconstruct:

We will publish next week a full list of the Brownlow negro emissaries, who ply the river as steward. We have our list nearly completed. Among the number is Capt. Frank Hicks, colored steward, a fellow named Shaw, who is a member of the loyal league, and is taking an active part with the Brownlow marauders. Colored men who belong to the river fraternity and have been taking an active part with Radicals, have been spotted. They will perhaps be able to realize this fall which pays the best, "wind pudding," puffed by Barbour Lewis and such like, or good living and good wages on a steamboat.

The Baltimore Sun, of the 11th, says: "President Garrett announced at the meeting of the Board of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, yesterday, that advices had been received from the North German Lloyds, that the work upon the splendid iron steamers for the Baltimore and Bremen Line has progressed much more rapidly than was expected, and that it was probable that the first steamer, whose name had been determined upon, 'The Baltimore,' would probably be able to make her first trip during this year, instead of in the spring, as heretofore expected. The work upon the second steamer is also reported to be advancing rapidly. This steamer is to be called 'The Berlin,' after the capital of the new German Union. The advices of President Meier, of the North German Lloyds, indicate the fullest confidence in the success of this important enterprise. That Company is already entertaining the design of building two additional first-class iron steamers, to be placed upon the line at an early period, the prospect being such for a uniform large business as to justify a regular fortnightly departure from Baltimore and Bremen, respectively. It is understood that there is an increasing interest in the Western and Southern States in connection with passengers, emigrant and other business which will be done by this line."

An immense iron floating dock for ships of the largest class is now building in England, on a novel plan (patented), for the service of the government at the naval station of Bermuda. It is proposed to tow the enormous mass (380x123x72 feet) across the Atlantic. It is constructed of a semi-cylindrical form, like a ship, in six series of longitudinal compartments, viz: two sections in the bottom, to be kept empty, one series on each side, at midnight, as balance water chambers, and one series on each side, at top, as load water chambers. The water chambers are kept full, and the dock thereby sunk, when not in use, and all is thus ready for the immediate raising of any vessel at a moment's notice, without the use of pumps or machinery. The vessel having been towed into the dock, without closing the ends, the gates are opened in the upper load chambers projecting above the water (by the weight of which the dock is sunk) and they are emptied into the sea. The dock and vessel are thus raised sufficiently to permit (the ends being then closed) the remaining water in the dock to be drawn off into the air compartments in the bottom, leaving the dock clear for the workmen. Afterwards, at leisure, the water is pumped out of the bottom compartments into the load chambers at the top of the sides, for the next occasion. For docking small vessels, hollow boats, or pontoons, fitting the bottom interior of the dock, are proposed, which will be emptied as above into the bottom air chambers, and will then be floated out without their load, making room for other vessels. By emptying the water chambers on one side only, the dock can be easily careened for repairs.

The shoalest point between Louisville and Evansville is Scuffletown bar, on which there are but 4½ feet. Between this point and Louisville, Rising Sun bar is the shoalest, on which there are 4½ feet. The Louisville Courier, with its usual falsity, says the latter bar is the head of navigation on the Ohio. The Courier is fast losing its reputation for reliability.—Cincinnati paper.

MEDICAL.

CONSUMPTION!

It would take a man a lifetime to read the treatises that have been written upon this important subject, and if a sick man were to attempt it he would make himself worse by the reading, and die before he got half through. The symptoms of the disease are, hacking cough, expectoration of matter or pus, pain in one or both lungs, chilliness, burning in the palms of the hands and soles of the feet, exhausting day or night sweats, hectic fever, wasting of flesh or marasmus, sometimes expectoration of blood. These are the usual outward symptoms, apparent not only to the observing physician, but to the patient's friends. There are, however, more important symptoms than these, which are only made manifest by auscultation and percussion, terms which mean, in a medical sense, thumping and listening, and they are employed outwardly in order to ascertain what is going on inside of the cavity of the chest. The signs or symptoms elicited in this way are almost surely demonstrate the true and exact condition of the respiratory organs. A perfect auscultator can not fail in ascertaining whether the Lungs are acting naturally or not. Hence it is the best method of examining the lungs. Their actual condition once discovered, the appropriate treatment is more rapidly arrived at, and every diseased part more completely under the influence of appropriate remedies. We have long been of the opinion that consumption or decay, or wasting of the bodily strength, was dependent on a depraved state of the blood, which carries, in its course, tuberculous matter, and deposits it in the lungs, or elsewhere in the body, just as calculi or stone is deposited in the bladder, a small particle of which attracts other particles, until it becomes of such offense to the natural functions as to bring on inflammatory action, which action, if it could, would carry it out of the system, and which could have been easily done in the beginning of such disease. Dr. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP is a complete and perfect cure in the forming stage of lung disease. It acts on the very principle we have stated above, by enabling the secreting or carrying off organs to do a double share of work. Waste and repair are easily comprehended, and if the worn out material be carried off, and the renewing material of a proper character, there must be health and ease, the contrary of sickness and dis-ease. In many cases of consumption which have become settled, Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup fails to cure, although it will do good in nearly all. He prepares a medicine called LUNG CURE OR PULMONARY RESTORATIVE, which is a great tonic, and strengthens and restores the parts to be renewed, while it dissolves and carries out from the body those particles of worn out or extraneous matter, which only tend to clog or destroy it, by hindering the renewing material being deposited in proper place.

PULMONARY CONSUMPTION, RESULTING FROM PLEURISY, CURED.

Statement of George Ford, carpenter, of No. 16 Sampson street, Allegheny City:

I took a violent attack of pleurisy, in May, 1866, which left me with a cough lasting all summer, wearing away my strength and gradually undermining my health. During this attack of pleurisy I had several physicians of the highest reputation in the city. After I had partially recovered from the pleurisy, I was advised to go into the country, which I did, and when there a called in a doctor, who told me my left lung was affected, and that if something were not done soon I would die of CONSUMPTION. I lingered on from this time until about the middle of June, my cough and lung disease gradually growing worse, and I weaker every day, and almost despairing of ever getting well. In this state of despondency, and knowing the general belief of the incurability of Consumption, and having heard of cures made by DR. KEYSER, and seeing his advertisement in the newspapers, I was induced in October last to call on the Doctor at his office, 120 Penn street, and had him examine my lungs with his "LUNG SOUND." He told me the upper lobe of my left lung was very much diseased, but he thought with great care and the perseverance in the use of his medicine, I would get well. At the time I called on Dr. Keyser my pulse was over one hundred and thirty beats in a minute, and I was generally prostrated, and had to cough night and day. I commenced the Doctor's treatment in October, with a feeble, broken constitution, and continued it faithfully until the present time. The Doctor's medicines helped me from the very start, and I could gradually feel myself getting stronger, and my cough and expectoration lessening. I have gained greatly in flesh, and consider myself well; all the rattling of my lung has ceased, and my general health is in every way good. All my relatives and friends know of the advanced stage of my disease and my extraordinary recovery. One of the medicines given me by Dr. Keyser was a medicine called LUNG CURE, which I took in connection with the other treatment.
GEORGE FORD
PITTSBURGH, March 20, 1867.

ANOTHER CURE OF CONSUMPTION.

STATEMENT OF JOHN G. WIGHAM, OF TURTLE CREEK, ALLEGHENY COUNTY.

I was discharged from the United States army January, 1866, on account of a wound in the head, from a shell, and a disease which the army physicians pronounced CONSUMPTION. I had a terrible cough and fell away in strength and flesh and was unable to do anything. Shortly after my return from the army, I made application to a physician of my neighborhood and, afterwards, to another in Pittsburgh of high reputation, whose remedies I used faithfully for five months, without any benefit whatever, but rather grew worse, and wasted in flesh and strength every day. In August, 1866, my mother took me to DOCTOR KEYSER, of 120 Penn street, whose skill in such cases like mine had been highly spoken of and put myself under his treatment. The doctor examined my lungs very carefully with his LUNG SOUND, and told me that my left lung was badly diseased at the upper part, but if I was careful he thought he could cure me by following his directions closely, which I did from that day to this. I gradually improved under Dr. Keyser's medicines from the first week I commenced to take them, and my general health has improved, and my chest, where it was sunk in away, and where it pained me, has become full and strong and free from pain. I can now do a full day's work, and take great pleasure in giving my testimony in favor of Dr. Keyser's treatment and medicines.

A case of five years' standing cured by DR. KEYSER'S PECTORAL SYRUP:

DR. KEYSER:—My wife has been afflicted with a cough and difficulty of breathing for five or six years, which, for several years back, had gradually increased in violence. The complaint has been hereditary, and she had been treated by several physicians without any relief. In this state of her case I procured some of your PECTORAL COUGH SYRUP. I bought the first time a fifty cent bottle, which relieved her very much; I then called and got a dollar bottle, which cured her entirely, and she has now no trace of the former disease, except weakness. I would also state that I used the medicine myself for a cold and cough. The medicine cured me by taking one dose. I express my entire satisfaction with the medicine, and you are at liberty to publish this if you desire to do so.

Our son, JAMES PAINTER, some three years of age was afflicted with consumption of the lungs, for which he was discharged from the army. He was examined by four army physicians, who all agreed that he must die with the disease. We brought him to Dr. KEYSER, 140 Wood street, (now 120 Penn street,) who, after sounding his lungs, commenced to treat him, and cured him sound and well. He is now well and has been so for the past three years. Others afflicted in like manner can likewise be cured.
